Eclipse 705 in TFF-systems (tangential flow filtration or cross-flow filtration)

Submitted by Jan Haerynck, Sales Manager (France office)

CUSTOMER: Merck Millipore

LOCATION: France

INDUSTRY: Pharmaceutical Manufacturing

ECLIPSE®
GUIDED WAVE RADAR

Merck Millipore technologies are used by most of the world's major biopharmaceutical companies. Merck Millipore delivers advanced separation, purification, sterilization and quality control products. Merck Millipore also offers solutions to optimize and validate processes.

Merck Millipore has integrated the Eclipse 705® into their TFF (tangential flow filtration or cross-flow filtration) and bubble trap systems as the standard measuring equipment from now on.

The Merck Millipore Marketing Department created the poster shown at right to be displayed at trade shows and on their premises. The ECLIPSE 705 is clearly displayed on it!

Marc Schaffner, Senior Project Manager and Instrumentation Specialist at Merck Millipore (Molsheim, France), explains why the ECLIPSE 705 was preferred over all other brands:

"The ECLIPSE 705 was chosen for its performance which is well above its competitors' after numerous and thorough comparative testing. The ECLIPSE 705 displays no dead zone, the precision and reproducibility are high over the entire length of the rod, its implementation is very simple and it features an integrated linearization table. We have excellent experiences with many and various applications.

No other brand of GWR has yet to yield the same high performance level as the one shown by the 705. On top of that, we have received unequaled support from the Magnetrol Sales Team."

After the final selection, Merck Millipore placed a preliminary order for 7 ECLIPSE units at the end of 2012. The first units were installed and successfully passed Factory Acceptance Testing the first week of March.

Marc Schaffner confirmed that the sales outlook for the standard range looks bright for 2013 and should result in multiple additional orders for the ECLIPSE 705!
